Research into government programs

Body:

Dear Name,

No matter what side of the political spectrum you fall under, I think we can all agree that greater transparency with regard to government spending, corporate lobbying and the media would really help us keep our government in check and figure out which, if any, politicians still have our best interest at heart.

The truth is that politicians are likely to keep on accepting payoffs from powerful organizations, following agendas that are not in line with what their constituent voters really want, and ignoring the issues that really concern our day-to-day lives.

Nothing is going to stop them unless we get informed. I am part of a non-profit research team conducting a survey of government programs, lobbyists and the media. I need your help in spreading the word about our research so that we can 1) learn what the real political views are of residents in each district, and 2) gain funding for this massive enterprise.

Our efforts can truly lead to greater government transparency in the United States, just like similar studies have affected governments such as Sweden, Denmark and Finland.

You can find out more information about our study and how you can help at <http://www.greaterreform.com/govenresearch-ideological/>.

Hi Name,

This is ~Name~ from the Farmer's Market. I wanted to reach out to you for help. Sales this past month weren't the best, and the market wants me to close down my stand because they think that the space would be better occupied by someone else. Can you believe that?

Anyway, I'm trying to get a petition together to show them that folks are still interested in the produce and things I bring to the market. If I get enough signatures, I can convince them to let me keep my spot, and you and everyone else can continue to have access to large, heirloom produce and unbeatable rates.

If this doesn't work out, then I guess I'll have to take business elsewhere, and I won't be able to sell to you or anyone else in the area for a while.

It is attended every year by folks who want to keep abreast of the goings on in the Alachua County world of art.

If you miss out on this event, then many of these works won't be available to you for perhaps another year. And some of the most impressive of the bunch tend to be bought up by collectors right away. Petition to improve health among young students

Hello Name,

Recent legislations have left little funding for health and wellness programs in Alachua County elementary and middle schools. The programs that were cut were meant to teach children about good nutrition and allow them a variety of opportunities to join athletic sports and recreational activities to stimulate healthful growth and stave off the epidemics of obesity and diabetes.

To sign our petition to bring back these programs and find out more about who we are, visit our page by following the link below.

Volunteers needed to assist Lawyer in pro bono work

Body:

Hello Name,

My name is ~Name~, a tax attorney for Piedad Law Firm. We are facing a serious crisis threatening low-income communities in Gainesville. In 2004, the Gainesville City Commission criminalized homelessness. In 2009, it limited soup kitchens to 130 meals a day, even if they were provided by volunteers.

Many Gainesville residents who are impoverished but not homeless don't have it much easier, with few opportunities available to them to advance themselves in the workforce. We have cited 17 incidents in 2015 alone of gross discrimination preventing hungry families from helping themselves. They will be out of luck if they lose their homes, seeing as the City of Gainesville and Alachua County commissioners have been stalling their plans of finding more practical and humane solutions for housing and rehabilitating those without a home.

We at Piedad Law are determined to make a difference through advocacy, but we need help from members of the community to make it happen. Volunteers of all ages and backgrounds are welcome.

For more information about how you can make a difference, please visit <http://www.harbenlock.com/piedalaw-legal/>.

Is a Stranger Putting Your Home Up for Auction?

Body:

Dear Name,

Hundreds of homeowners per year are caught unaware when they receive notice that their home has been purchased out from under them. Post-Recession Florida Law allows for uninvolved parties to "claim" purchase on a home if it is uninhabited. Once that claim has been made, it falls to the resident to prove their home is inhabited. Otherwise, the home goes up for auction without informing the resident!

Don't be caught unprepared. While several legal groups fight this law in Tallahassee, thousands of Florida Residents are ensuring their homes are not in danger at our non-profit informational site: <http://www.harbenlock.com/homeauction-legal/>. Check now, and check often.
